Stanford Summer 2015
Letter from the Associate Dean and Director

I’d like to take this opportunity to extend a warm welcome to Stanford University and its Summer Session! All of us here at Summer Session have been eagerly awaiting your arrival, and now that you are here, we look forward to being part of your Stanford experience. Many students have come from around the world to share in this exciting time, and we hope that you will be able to take full advantage of this uniquely vibrant and diverse learning community.

Please take some time to look through this welcome booklet and our website (summer.stanford.edu), where you will find answers to many of your questions. If you can’t find something, please don’t hesitate to ask. We expect students to be actively engaged during their time here, both academically and socially, so please seek out the resources available to you and make the most of this experience.

Stanford is located in the heart of Silicon Valley in the San Francisco Bay Area, a region characterized by innovation and technology, as well as a wonderful cultural and natural environment. There is much to do and see, and we know that you will enjoy your time here. Academics will be challenging, and we are confident that you will gain new knowledge and insights as rewards for your hard work.

I wish you all the best in all that you do here this summer!

DEAN BILL WHOBREY

Quick Start Guide to Your Summer at Stanford

PLAN YOUR WEEKEND (PAGE 2)
Take some time to review all information included in this booklet, especially the schedule of events on page 2. Plan out when you will purchase your textbooks and school supplies at the Stanford Bookstore, review the campus map to pinpoint key locations, and remember to attend the mandatory orientation(s) scheduled Sunday afternoon on Levin Field.

SETTLE IN (PAGE 4)
If you’re a residential student, be sure to connect to the Internet from your room and set up your room phone. Instructions on how to connect to the Internet anywhere on campus can be found on page 4. Need bedding? Take the free Marguerite shuttle to a nearby shopping center by following the special Shopping Express schedule on page 5. (Pillows, bed linens, and towels are not provided.)

EXPLORE CAMPUS (PAGE 8)
Get to know your home for the summer by exploring Stanford’s campus. Locate your dining options (details on page 8) and your classrooms. As you explore, you may determine that you would like a bicycle to get around campus for the summer—see page 10 for information about summer bike rentals.

SIGN UP FOR FREE TUTORING (PAGE 11)
The Summer Academic Resource Center (SARC) is a great resource for Summer Session students. Not sure if you’ll need it? Check out sarc.stanford.edu to get information about their offerings throughout the summer. Remember, it’s free! See page 10 and 11 for more details.

CONNECT WITH YOUR CLASSMATES AND GET TO KNOW YOUR SUMMER SESSION STAFF (PAGE 12)
You’ll be spending a whole summer in your residence, so start to get to know the people sharing it with you! House Directors, Summer Resident Assistants, and Resident Computer Consultants are available to help you with any questions you may have throughout your stay at Stanford.

Settle In

If you’re a residential student, follow the instructions provided to connect to the Internet from your room. If you run into trouble, contact the RCC in your residence for help. If you’re a commuter student, follow the instructions to connect to the Internet on campus.

CONNECTING TO THE INTERNET FROM YOUR ROOM

Connect your computer to the network with an Ethernet cable or from the “Stanford Residences” wireless network. There are Ethernet ports in every room. Typically the port that is colored red indicates the active Ethernet port, although the other ports may work as well. For network setup, as well as everyday computing, you can use either the wired (Ethernet) or wireless networks.

1. If necessary, update your Windows or Mac OS X (if not, skip to Step 3):
   - On a Mac, click on the Apple logo on the top left of the screen. Then click on “Software Update...” and follow the instructions on the screen.
   - If using Windows, open Internet Explorer. It will redirect you to the Residential Computing website. Go to Tools > Windows Update. Choose “Express” to update your Windows to the latest (and safest) version. You may have to enable ActiveX control right underneath the address bar. Click “Install Updates” to start the installation. Restart your computer.

2. Open a web browser. You should be redirected to the Residential Computing website. If you are not redirected, type netreg.stanford.edu in the browser bar.

3. Follow the directions on the Residential Computing website:
   - Click the “Submit” button on the page to begin the registration process (you may need to login using your SUNet ID and password).
   - Verify the identity information and click “Yes,” if correct.
   - Click the “New Registration link.”
   - Read the Stanford Computing and Network Usage Policies and click “Continue.”
   - Click “Yes” if you are using the computer you wish to register.
   - The registration page should automatically gather and input your Ethernet Address/Physical Address/MAC Address. If not, click the “Hardware Ethernet Address” for a step-by-step guide to finding your Hardware Ethernet Address. Click “Submit, ” if correct.
   - If this is the first time registering the device you will be asked to download and run the “Stanford Network Registration Tool.” If your computer is up-to-date, it will tell you. If you don’t pass the check, follow the instructions on the “Additional Tasks Needed” to pass the check.
   - Once you have installed the necessary updates and passed the Health Checker, on the webpage where you downloaded the Health Checker tool, click “I have already passed the Stanford Network Registration Tool this academic year.”
   - Click “Submit Registration Form.” You will be instructed to wait 15 minutes and then restart your computer. Congratulations, you’re now connected to the Internet!

CONNECTING TO THE INTERNET ON CAMPUS

Students will need to register their laptop in order to obtain Internet access on campus. Please follow these instructions:

- When you are on campus, open any web browser. You should be redirected to the “Stanford Network Self-Registration” webpage. If you are not redirected, type snsreg.stanford.edu in the browser bar. Please note that this process will NOT work if you are off campus.
- Choose “Continue To Registration Choices,” and follow the instructions on the screen.
- Congratulations! You’re now connected to the Internet!

If you run into trouble, file a HelpSU Ticket online at helpsu.stanford.edu or call 650-725-HELP. Be as specific as possible in describing your problem, and be sure to state that you are a commuting student registered for Stanford courses during the Summer Quarter, and do not live on campus.
